Welcome

The Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee takes great pleasure in presenting the Olympic Arts Festival. In keeping with the spirit of the Olympic Charter which mandates that the cultural counterpart of the Games "shall be of an equal standard" to the sports events, the Committee brings many of the world's greatest artists to Los Angeles to participate in the Olympic Arts Festival.

For eight weeks before and two weeks during the XXIIIrd Olympiad, the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee hosts one of the most comprehensive cultural celebrations in Olympic history. As in ancient Greece, artists and athletes alike join in the pursuit of excellence and honor the highest athletic, artistic and intellectual achievements of the human spirit.

Join Us!

The Olympic Arts Festival is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to have many of the world's best artists in the same place at the same time. It is a guided tour of the cultural capitals of the world—Paris, London, Los Angeles and Milan; Tokyo, Beijing, New York and São Paulo—with no passport required.

The Festival offers the chance to see performances and art never before seen in America—impressionist masterpieces from the Louvre, national treasures from Japan's Kasuga Shrine and Germany's Pina Bausch Dance Theatre Company fresh from triumphs at the Edinburgh, Avignon and Adelaide festivals.

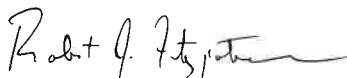

Variety abounds: clowns from Italy and Australia, giant puppets from Quebec, acrobats and musicians from the People's Republic of China. Discovery awaits: the white-powdered dancers of Sankaijuku, demon drummers of Kodo, the winners of the world's major chamber music competitions. Placido Domingo stars in the Royal Opera's stunning new production of Turandot, Jon Vickers sings Peter Grimes; and Derek Jacobi headlines the Royal Shakespeare Company's production of Much Ado About Nothing. France's celebrated director Ariane Mnouchkine presents Richard II in the Kabuki tradition, and Giorgio Strehler puts his distinctive directorial stamp on Shakespeare's The Tempest for Italy's renowned Piccolo Teatro di Milano.

From Boston and New York, San Francisco, Chicago and Washington, D.C., the finest theatre companies in the United States stage new productions, revivals and world premieres. The Mark Taper Forum and nine other Los Angeles theatres join The Negro Ensemble Company, The Goodman Theatre, The National Theatre of the Deaf and others in presenting special Festival productions. In dance, Feld, Lewitzky, Cunningham, Nikolais, Joffrey and Tharp—America's best—along with outstanding dancers from Africa, Asia, Europe and the Americas make Los Angeles the dance capital of the world in the summer of 1984.

Included in the Olympic summer are festivals of tap dance, contemporary music, masks, film, animation, video and folklife; and four Hollywood Bowl evenings, from a jazz marathon to a gala concert with Michael Tilson Thomas and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. In all, there are more than 400 performances, exhibitions and special events.

Thanks to Times Mirror Company, the official sponsor of the Olympic Arts Festival, ticket prices have been kept affordable so that you may attend many festival events.

Join us for a summer of excitement.

Le Theatre du Soleil ★Television Center, Studio 9United States Debut*

One of the central forces in the current revival of French theatre, Ariane Mnouchkine has taken on a unique cycle of Shakespeare plays, three of which receive their American premieres at the Festival: Richard II, Twelfth Night and Henry IV, Part I. Mnouchkine recaptures Shakespeare in unorthodox ways: Japan's Kabuki and India's kathakali traditions preserve the social hierarchies of Shakespeare's time; Italian commedia dell'arte retains improvisation and the use of masks. Mnouchkine's theatre thus arrives in Los Angeles in Oriental costume, with masks, painted faces and athletic acting. Of the most popular 1982 Avignon productions (Richard II and Twelfth Night) Le Point observed: "Le Theatre du Soleil has enjoyed its consecration at Avignon; for a consecration it certainly is; a glorious event, a liturgy." Alfred Simon said of Twelfth Night: "The most triumphal evening I have ever witnessed."

Carlo and Alberto Colombaioni*Schoenberg Hall, UCLAWest Coast Debut*

Master craftsmen in the fine art of European clowning, the brothers Colombaioni, according to the Denver Post, are "the most magnificent practitioners you are likely to see of the venerable Italian tradition known as 'commedia dell'arte.'" Though the Colombaionis have deep circus roots, their performances are as suggestive of Beckett as they are of the big top. Their send-up of Hamlet (Omlet) is fabled throughout Europe. Their show is an all-family affair.

L.A. Theatre Works produces new and innovative work of emerging and established playwrights from the United States and abroad. For the Festival, L.A. Theatre Works presents Steven Berkhoff's freely adapted version of Agamemnon. Hailed as "... the top boy in contemporary British theatre" by Time, Berkoff directs an interracial company of American actors in an athletic, thoroughly modern approach to a classic text—a startling production about heat and battle, fatigue, and the marathon.
